ATTENTION ALL KNITTERS

A new quota of Red Cross Worsteds has been received by the local Production Room, and the Chairman for Knitting, Mrs. A. W. Moore would like those who are interested in obtaining this wool to call her. There are sleeveless khaki and navy blue turtle neck sweaters to be made. Remember your boy in the service needs the warmth of these desirable garments which you make for him. For full information and instructions, call Mrs. Moore, 385.

NUTRITION CLASS

The newly organized Nutrition Class of the Red Cross held its first meeting, under the instructions of Mrs. Eleanor Davis, on Friday last at the Masonic Temple Bldg. At this meeting it was decided to conduct the classes on Monday of each week instead of Friday. The second meeting was held the following Monday. This promises to be a very interesting course of study, and to those ladies who would still like to join, it is not too late to enroll for the next meeting. The coming meeting however, will be most important, dealing with vitamins, and to those who have failed to attend one of the first three lectures, the class will be closed. Remember, each Monday at 1:30, in the Masonic Temple Bldg.

SURGICAL DRESSINGS MARCH TO WAR

The people of Hancock County are most generous in every appeal made to them, be it for financial or for personal help, and it is with a great deal of gratification that we wish to say that the appeals which have been made recently for workers in the Surgical Dressings rooms, have been answered most promptly and most enthusiastically. The Surgical Dressings Chairman has been highly pleased with the response, and to all of the ladies who have been so generous with their time, she would like to give her thanks. However, the job is just beginning, and as time rolls on, the fighting becomes more intense, which we all know it will begin with D-Day, more dressings than ever are going to be required for use abroad. The information which reaches us gives evidence of the fact that the morale of our fighting man is very high. Daily momentum is speeded up, and as goes for our fighting man, so must our work at home follow the pace which he sets for us. He does not lay down his gun for a minute, nor must we lay down our work to provide the necessary equipment to keep him going. And sterile dressings are equipment just as necessary to him as his gun, or tank, or round of ammunition. He fights the known enemy, the sterile dressings fight the unknown enemy of infection, which are one of the evils of war.

The Head of your Red Cross Chapter in Hancock County was very confident that when the appeal was made for workers, that appeal would be answered. Your Red Cross is going to keep in with its appeal to you women, and it feels you will give your all, as you have proven that you can and will, to keep up the fine standard of work that you have started. Your boy is marching to war. The Surgical Dressings you make are marching with him for his protection. An ultimate victory will be yours, when your boy comes marching home again. You, personally will have helped to win the war.

The Surgical Dressings Rooms in Bay St. Louis are in the Masonic Temple Bldg. Those at Waveland in the Waveland City Hall, and the Logtown Chapter holds its meetings in the Logtown Methodist church.

ANNUAL MAY FESTIVAL AT S. J. A. PROVES INTERESTING AFFAIR

Miss Betty Simpson, daughter of Mayor and Mrs. W. G. Simpson of Pass Christian, and Cadet Robert Mitchell reigned as queen and king of the St. Joseph Academy May Festival held in the auditorium of the school on Saturday evening.

The curtain rose on a stage which had been transformed into an outdoor spring garden bright with flowering plants, and here the king with his junior duke, Charles McCollister, and the duke of honor, Claude Martin and his junior duke, Johnny Fairchild, Pass Christian, awaited the coming of the queen and the maid of honor.

Preceding the entrance of the court came the garland bearers, Gene Aime, Joanne D. Benedetto, Mary Ann Blanchard, Janelle Mitchell, Ann Hubbard, Karen Kergosien and Sandra Scafide, carrying garlands of roses.

The maids, all wearing lovely youthful dresses in the pastel shades and carrying arm bouquets of spring flowers, entered with their junior maids, who wore the dainty floor length dresses, and carried the old fashioned bouquets, from either entrance of the stage and descended to the floor where they were met by their dukes and junior dukes and took their places at the foot of the stage.

The maid of honor, Miss Emily Claire Murtagh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Murtagh, entered from the side of the hall and with her junior maid, Andrea Blaize, she was met by her duke and his junior duke and ascended the stage. Miss Murtagh was a vision of loveliness in a dress of silk net made with a bodice of brocade satin and she carried an arm bouquet of American Beauty roses.

The queen entered from the side entrance of the hall with her junior maid Betty McCollister, Pass Christian, and was escorted to the stage by Cadet Gene Mattson, where she was met by the king who placed the jeweled crown on her head. She was preceded by the crown bearer, Jerry Bertucci, and her train bearers were Linda French and Pat Erwin, Pass Christian.

Miss Simpson's rare brunette beauty was enhanced by a gown of white silk net made with a full skirt and a bodice of metallic cloth and the sweetheart neck was finished with a trimming of Rhinestones. Her mantle was of the net applied in the metallic cloth and finished with a Medici collar. She carried an arm bouquet of red American Beauty roses.

It is seldom that a more brilliant scene has been witnessed at other May festivals of the school than this which was a picture long to be remembered as the court formed the grand march.

The court program consisted of a tap dance by Thais Gardebled, song by Janelle White and toe dance by Jeanne Gardebled. The dances were directed by Mrs. Mat Rhodes.

Following the grand march the court held sway for the first three dances; and then the floor was open for general dancing. Music was furnished by M. B. C. S. orchestra with Billy Newberger furnishing a few laughs.

The following complete court: Maids and Dukes: Joyce Arnold and Carl Olschne; Jacqueline Autin and Ashley Schexnayder; Joseph Castro and Cadet R. C. Honors Conferred on Emile Gex

The Mississippian, published by the student body of the University of Mississippi, recently carried the intelligence that Emile Gex, son of Mrs. Laurin Gex of this city, will head the Mississippi Law Journal, the legal periodical of the Mississippi State Bar, as business manager for the 1944-45 session of "Ole Miss." This information was released by Judge T. C. Kimbrough, Dean of the School of Law.

The same issue carried the initiation of Emile into the Phi Delta Phi international honorary legal fraternity.

In order to become a member of this group, a law student must have a high scholastic standing in his legal work in addition to a personality indicative of a successful lawyer. Membership is one of the highest honors that can be received by a law student, the article said.

Congratulations, Emile, it is always a great pleasure and satisfaction to know of such honors being conferred on the home boys.

O. W. DELPH WAR LOAN CHAIRMAN

Fifth War Loan Drive Begins June 12th Ends July 8th

The War Finance Leaders throughout the State of Mississippi are making preparations for the Fifth War Loan Drive which begins on June 12th, to end on July 18.

In Hancock County all preliminary work is being done to insure the success of this drive. On Friday night, May 12th, at 7:30 P. M. members of the Hancock County War Finance Committee will journey to Biloxi to attend a meeting, together with members of the committee from Harrison and Jackson Counties, which will be held at the Buena Vista Hotel.

The War Finance Committee is headed by A. G. Favre as County War Finance Director. Mr. Octave W. Delph, prominent business man of Bay St. Louis was recently named County Chairman of the War Bond Drive. Mrs. Roger Boh is Chairman of the Women's Division.

Mississippi's quota for the Fifth War Loan Drive is $56,000,000, an increase of $3,000,000 over the last campaign. We feel certain that our quota in Hancock County will be at, or near the amount of the last drive.

Mississippi in the Fourth War Loan Drive stood at the top of the nation in percentage of bonds sold, and State Chairman, Rex I. Brown, states: "Citizens will be pleased, we feel sure, to know that Mississippi has not been penalized because of the wonderful war bond records met in the past. Our increase is not proportionate with the national increase, since our quota was assigned on many factors which determined the actual bond buying ability of citizens."

"It is going to take the fullest co-operation for the state and counties to reach set goals. We are confident our goals will be reached. The money is here, and all we have to do is get it out. The War Bond Drive is a challenge more than before to do its part."

While on the subject of the last war bond drive, the figures of the local War Finance Committee and the State Committee were not reconciled, the local committee showing a greater amount of sales than the state office credited them with. Upon a final check being made, it was found that $44,000.00 of bonds purchased for the credit of Hancock County were credited inadvertently by the Federal Reserve Bank at New Orleans to Harrison County. This amount when added to the amount actually credited, put Hancock County over the top.

It is hoped by the War Finance Committee of Hancock County that during the Fifth War Loan Drive more active interest will be shown therein than during the last drive, and that it will not be a question of a few thousand dollars meaning the success of the drive.

This is our war and it becomes our duty to back our men in service.

MOTHER'S DAY, 1944

SHE smiled when you opened your tiny blue eyes,
Your first peep on this world of ours,
And your little, baby cry made mother realize
You understood the agony of her painful hours.

A vase of red roses on a table nearby
Fired your blood and dried your eyes dry;
Crossing chubby fingers and wriggling tiny toes—
Not beautiful to anyone but mother, God knows!
You wobbled over to dear mother's bed,
Saluting by scratching your fuzzy little head.

Remember how happy, those school days were then,
Blue reading book, red pencil and pen;
The little girl next door, her heart palpitating
Sent furtive glances—but mother was waiting!

Graduation Day! High School and College!
All scenes were beautiful but still to your knowledge
You remember and appreciate most, mother's care—
Her whole soul was wrapped in your future welfare.

How proud mother was when you brought your first pay
And married that girl over the way!
Mother looked at dad's picture on the wall up above—
Cherished memories—wanted nothing but love for love.
Dad fought and died in World War I—
Died to end wars! That's why he died, son!

Your country now calls you from peace to foul war—
Oh, why can't we avoid this curse we abhor?
Between wife and mother swinging arm in arm,
The flower of manhood in bright uniform,
Gaily you marched to the town's shanty depot.
All aboard! A toot-toot! Now a speck of the train Mother sees. Still waving, goes home again.

Son's long, lovely letters are weeks overdue!

"THE WAR DEPARTMENT REGRETFULLY INFORMS YOU....."

Oh, God, help me bear this bitter torment!
My rose beautiful crushed in its first adornment—
Twenty-one years today he came from my womb;
Today, they buried him in some foreign tomb.
So like his dad, he fought that I might live—
God, if I had another, I would WILLINGLY give!
Yet, may there never, I pray, be another war
As on MOTHER'S DAY of 1944.—B. T.

—St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaw, May 8, 1944.

"AS HE DIED TO MAKE MEN HOLY,
LET US DIE TO MAKE MEN FREE..."

ANOTHER Easter has come and gone. To you, was it just an other excuse to buy a quantity of new clothes and have a good time, or was it an opportunity understand and appreciate the perfect sacrifice made for us by Christ?

Before the world was in the present state of affairs, we were inclined to ignore the significance of Easter, and adopt local customs of celebration. It was a season of fun for all. The adults visited with close relatives while the children enjoyed the traditional Easter egg hunt.

This year we stayed home because we didn't have enough gasoline to travel; we had whatever our ration points permitted for dinner; and there were few egg hunts for they were too scarce and expensive. Candles were difficult to find and money was put into War Bonds instead of clothes. That didn't leave much for celebration. What, then, did Americans do to observe this Easter of 1944?

Many of us used it as a time to renew in our memory the value of the crucifixion of Christ. Now, that we are fighting the worst war history has ever known, it was most important that we realize what He did for us. If all men tried to follow His perfect example, we would have no need for the tremendous waste of money, time, raw materials—and human lives, which is always connected with war.

This Easter Sunday Americans were in church enjoying the beautiful flowers, lovely music, but most of all, they were cherishing the right to worship God in freedom. Most of us cannot comprehend that a terrible war is being fought in the same world with us. We have felt so few effects from it. Yes, at the very same moment that we were worshipping at home,
other Americans were fighting and dying to preserve that privilege. Realizing this, the words of Julia Ward Howe become very appropriate. They hold just as true now as they did then, and they always will.

"As He died to make men holy, let us die to make men free, while God is marching on."
May Edition—Bay St. Louis High School Student Prints.

ENTITLED TO RELIEF

THERE should be general approval of the Senate Committee's declaration that millions of white-collar, low-income workers are living "in a borderland between subsistence and privation."

We think that something should be done to permit this large class of respectable citizens to receive reasonable increases in pay. The committee suggests that wage controls be removed on incomes up to $200 a month for family heads and $150 for single persons.

Congressional Sidelights

by Congressman Wm. McColmer

THE HOME FRONT

A major land battle or a great sea engagement between our forces and the enemy could not have stirred up the public interest, and especially the interest on Capitol Hill, more than the Government seizure of Montgomery-Ward Company's Chicago
plant. The people's desire to protect and maintain their Democratic form of government is so sacred that any action on the part of their servants which might be construed as infringement upon their rights always creates a major disturbance.
And this is as it should be. When John L. Lewis threatened the war effort with a major coal mine strike
the President, under the authority previously granted him by the Congress, stepped in with the Army and seized and operated the coal mines.
This was necessary in order to produce the coal to produce the munitions of war. No question was raised in the public mind of Presidential authority for this action because coal is the very essence of our war effort. But when the Montgomery-Ward Co. employees struck against their employer and the War
Labor Board ordered that big Mail Order house to make a new contract with the strikers the Company refused. The Company's president took the position that the War Labor Board should first order an election to determine whether, in fact, the C. I. O. really represented its employees and refused to comply with the order. Whereupon the President, through the Attorney General and the Army, took over the plant and forcibly ejected the strikers.

The question of whether the C. I.
O. or Montgomery-Ward Company was right is immaterial so far as the big question of the government's authority to take the plant is concerned. From the standpoint of right or wrong this strike was just another strike in free America.

The Attorney General advised a recuperating President that he had the right to seize the plant. Many Members of Congress, including some very able lawyers in their own right, take the position that he did not have this constitutional or statutory right. It is argued that if the government can seize the plant of a Mail Order house engaged in selling ordinary merchandise, as opposed to furnishing the sinews of war to the Government, then the government can seize any private business however large or small. This appears to be sound logic. But viewed from all of its angles the action was most unfortunate—in that, the government further tends to divide our people at a time when unity of the people is a most coveted objective.

Congress, as the guardian of the people's rights, immediately went into action. And in a stormy session of House Rules Committee on the day following the seizure authorized the setting up of a seven-man Committee to investigate the act. The House still must approve the Resolution, which, of course, is bitterly opposed by the Administration. Sound, conservative opinion in the Congress is to the effect that it is hoped that the unfortunate matter
may be settled before such Commitee is finally set up and before such further fuel of high-tensioned opinion may be added to the flames.

Boy Scout Troop 217 Now Re-Registering

Boy Scout Troop 217 sponsored by Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church, with Rev. Father A. J.
Gmelch, pastor, and Fred E. Fayard Scout Master, are now re-registering the scouts of Troop 217 and new scouts as well.

The Scout learns in hiking into the woods, to tell North from South
by the moss on the trees, or East and west from the shadows.

He can talk to a Brother Scout across a river by signaling. He knows the principal trees and birds and animals that he meets; he knows the poisonous weeds and reptiles; he can find his way by the stars as aid the Indians and pioneers before him.

If matches are forgotten the scout laughs and proceeds to kindle a fire by rubbing sticks together or by striking steel on flint. The fire once started he can cook out in the open and keeps himself physically fit.

The scout guards his tongue from loose speech, boasting or sacrilege and when he speaks of any one he tries to only speak well of him.

His scout "Good Turn" to some friends. His motto is "Be Prepared" and he thinks through in advance what he would do in a fire and a storm. When some one is injured

How are her great, great grand-

A. & G. THEATRE SUNDAY - MONDAY GINGER ROGERS' "TENDER COMRADE"

Poignant Drama of War
Bride—Intimate And Realistic Romance.

A new picture starring Ginger Rogers has come to be an event in filmdom, and when that picture dramatizes a human interest situation reflected in thousands of homes in an America that is at war—an enormously added importance is given the production. This is the case with "Tender Comrade," in which Miss Rogers is starred by RKO Radio, with a new leading man, Robert Ryan, playing opposite her.

The story of "the girl next door," and the boy she marries, and of what happens when he goes off to war, is the simple but powerful theme of "Tender Comrade." It strikes a timely note in presenting the star of "Once Upon a Honeymoon" and "Kitty Foyle" in a part enacted by so many American women today.

Jo Jones, one of a group of war wives employed in an airplane plant near Los Angeles, is married to Chris, who is in uniform and overseas. With three fellow employees, Barbara, Helen and Doris, she rents a big old-fashioned house and employs a housekeeper.

The four have their differences, but the loss of Barbara's husband in action brings them together, and they are united even more tightly when Jo becomes a mother.

Poignant and appealing, but with many gay comedy moments to offset its dramatic scenes, "Tender Comrade" is hailed as one of the hits of Ginger's career. Ryan, rugged young actor whose portrayals in recent offerings won him the masculine lead as the gay and likeable Chris, turns in a notable performance, as does Ruth Hussey as the willful, impatient Barbara.

Patricia Collinge and Kim Hunter, are the two other members of the group. Mady Christians plays the Austrian housekeeper, Richard Martin and Jane Darwell are also featured in this David Hempstead production. Dalton Trumbo wrote the original screenplay, Edward Dmytryk directed.

Little did a group of slant-eyed war lords think 29 months ago that their successful Pearl Harbor attack would turn out to be an "honorable mistake."

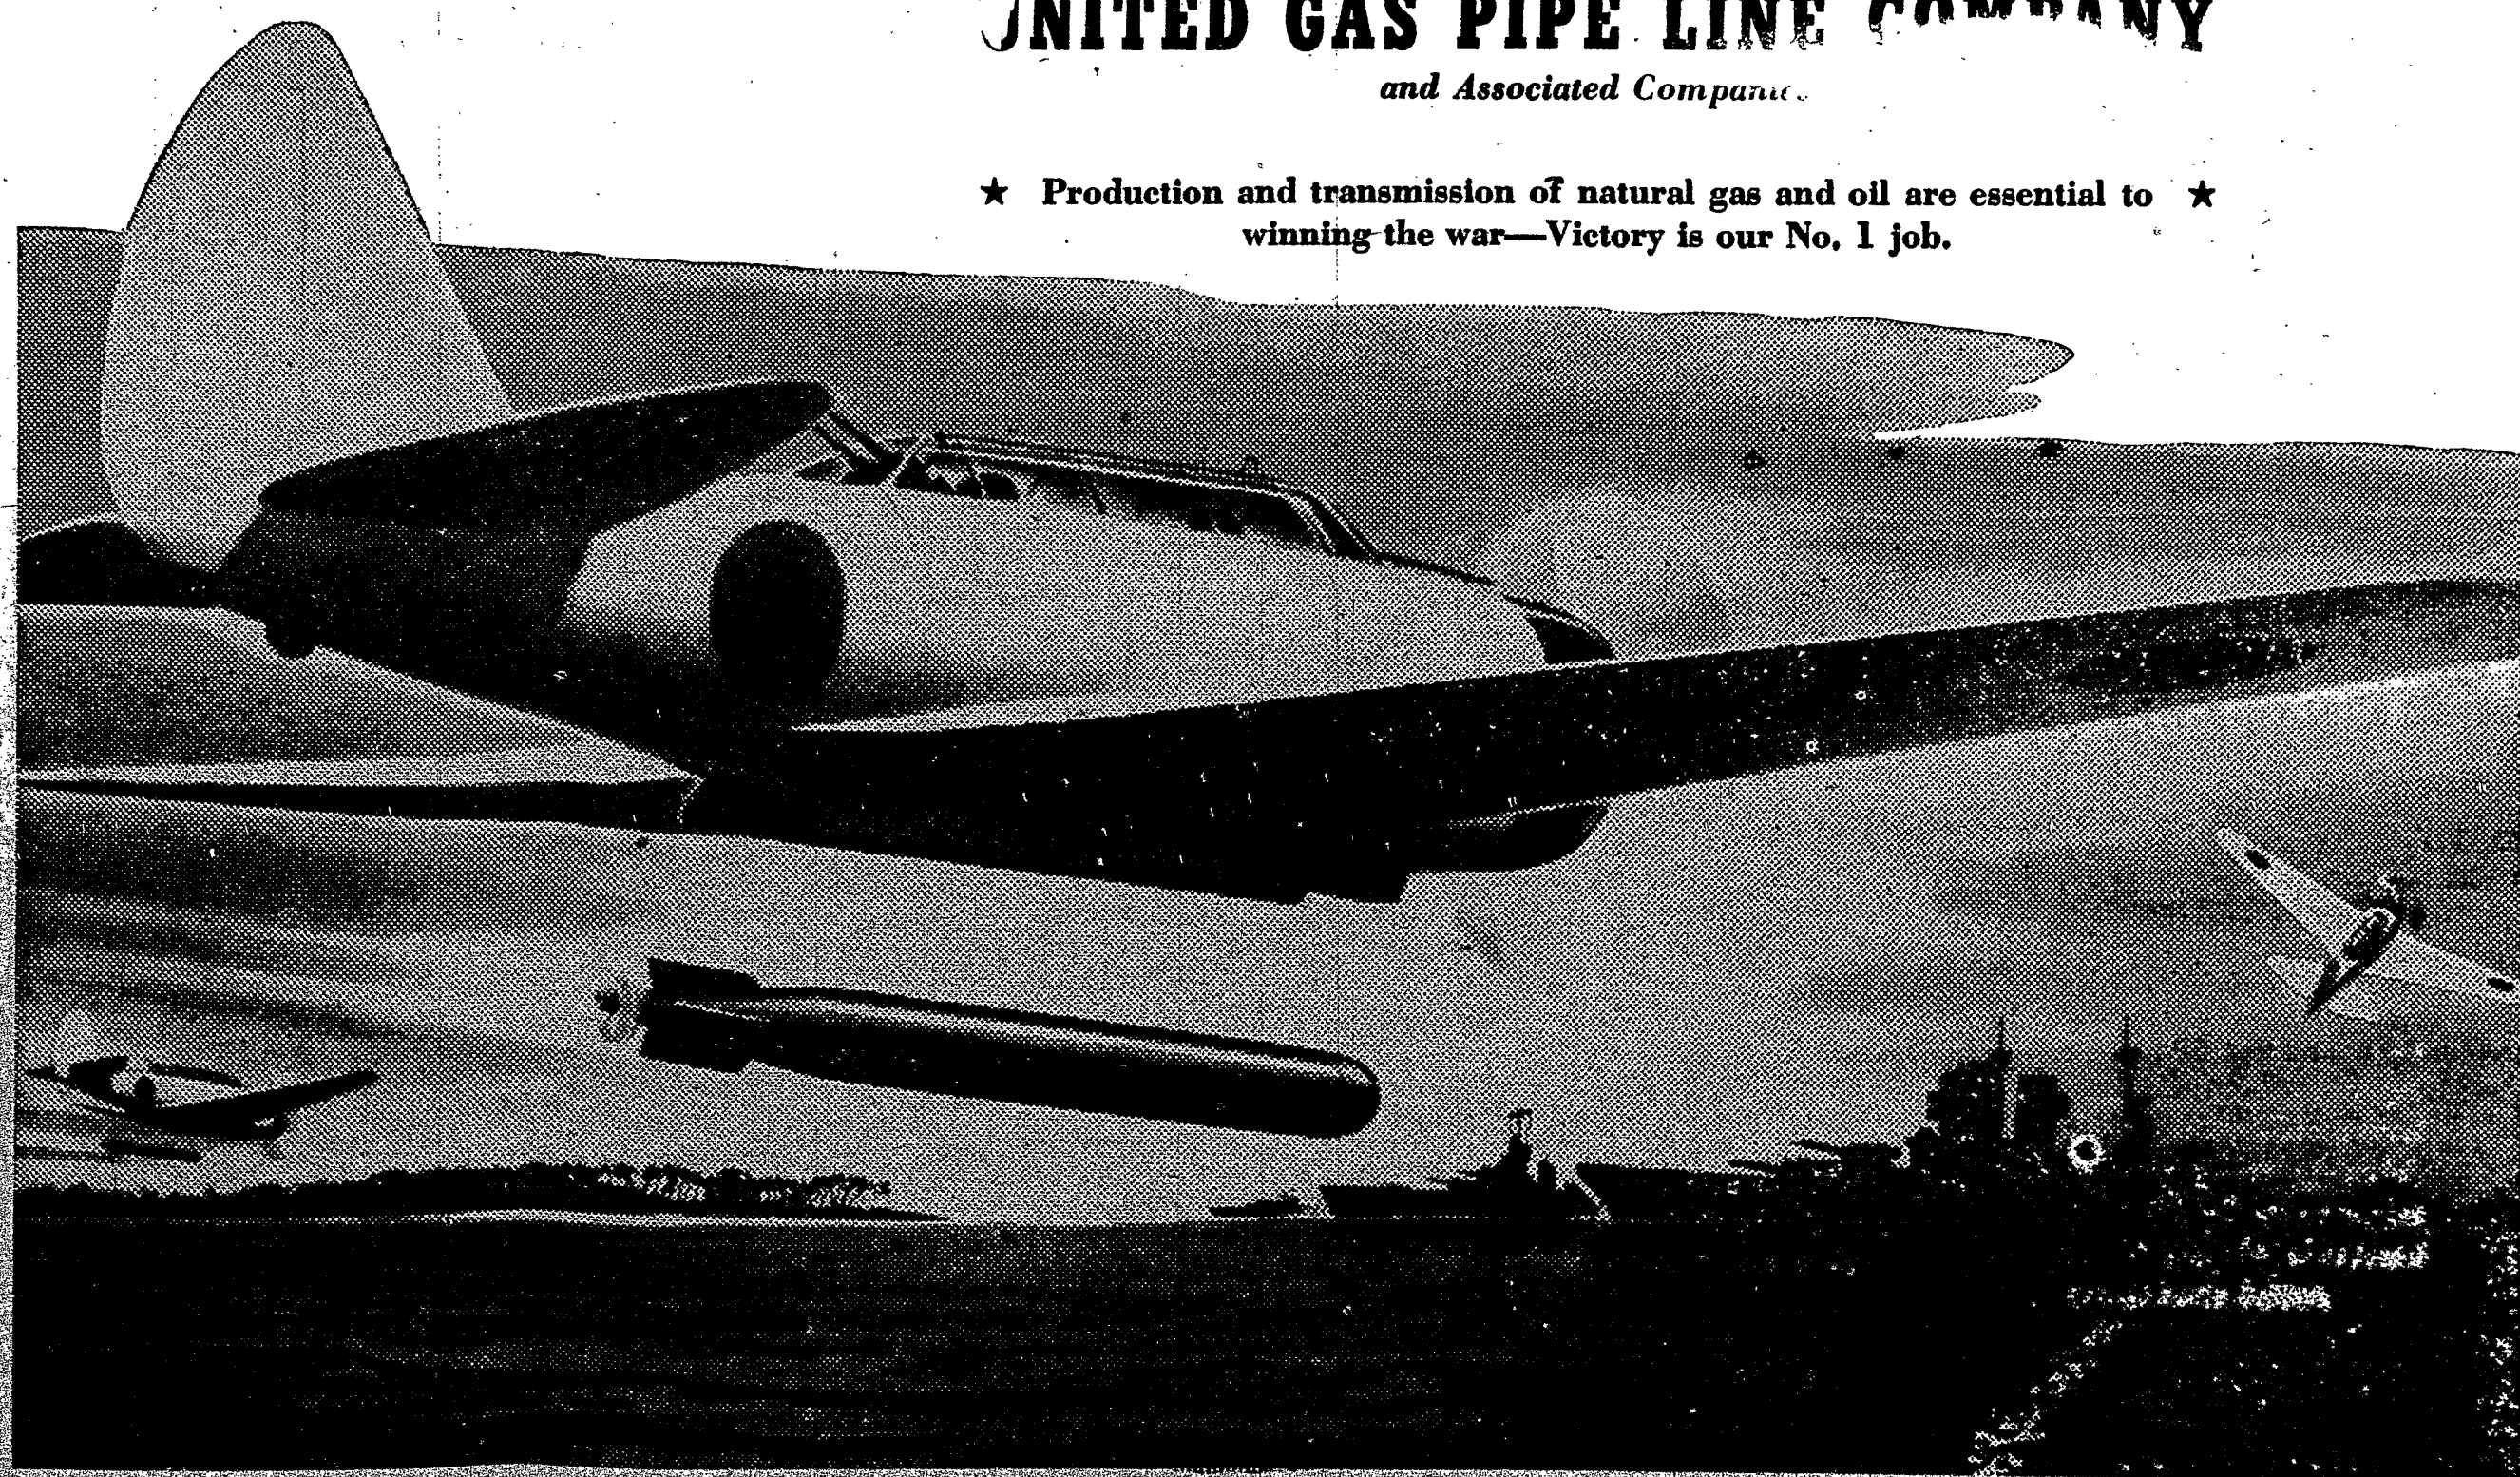

Little did they dream that American ingenuity and industry would produce more implements of war in a couple of years than the "sons of heaven" had been able to accumulate in a quarter century. They didn't realize they were attacking a people who prize their American heritage and freedoms more dearly than life itself.

Our organization, together with every business enterprise and individual throughout the land, is dedicated to stamping out these ruthless aggressors... to speed the day when peace will again reign supreme.

ORTIE THEATRE SUNDAY - MONDAY "SPITFIRE"

A Samuel Goldwyn Production
Starring Leslie Howard,
David Niven

Without being a war picture, one of the great pictures of the war is "Spitfire," starring Leslie Howard and David Niven. Here is the story of the first and in many ways the greatest hero of World War II, who died a heroic death even before the war started. His name is R. J. Mitchell, and he is the genius who invented the Spitfire, Britain's deadly fighter plane which shot the Nazi planes out of the sky at the climax of the Battle of Britain.

But Mitchell, portrayed by Leslie Howard, was more than a genius—he was a warm, lovable human being. Howard projects this quality admirably, especially in his relations with his beautiful wife, played by red-haired, blue-eyed Rosamund John. David Niven, on leave from active service for his role, plays a test pilot who will fly anything born on Mitchell's drawing board, no matter how fantastic and who has one eye cocked always for anything in skirts that happens to be in the neighborhood.

A dramatic sequence is shown when Mitchell visits Germany in pre-war days, and becomes aware of the evil Nazi spirit behind the elaborate hospitality with which he is entertained. The revelations of how the Nazis are evading their treaty obligations send him hurrying back to England to perfect the Spitfire as a weapon against the attack he is sure Germany will make.

In his effort, Mitchell wrecks his health and is told that he will die unless he rests, for at least a year. In a moving scene with his lovely wife, he tells her why he cannot rest, but must instead work all the harder to make Britain ready. The result is inevitable; but Mitchell lives to see his first Spitfire flown in a dazzling test and accepted by the Government.

All this is told with drama, humor and pathos, and performed by a distinguished cast. The production is superb and the beauty of the English countryside always is an absorbing background.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

The Secret Weapon in Dan Mason's Attic

Dan Mason was always what we call a "string saver." When he unwraps a package he rolls up the string, folds the paper—and puts them both in his attic for safe-keeping.

"Never can tell when things'll come in handy," says Dan.

And you should see his attic. Stacks of paper, balls of string, empty bottles (Dan being a modest man and sticking just to best) old horseshoes—and goodness knows what all.

We used to kid him a lot. But then comes the scrap drive, and Dan sets a record for the metal and the paper he contributes. And the glassmakers owe him a medal for the empty bottles he turns in.

From where I sit, Dan's one up on us all. What's more, he's got us doing it too—collecting scrap, returning empty bottles—not because somebody makes us do it, but because it's the Democratic way of working together to win the war.

Joe Marsh

Smart Mothers Know—

M-I-L-K spells HEALTH

Not the way you learned to spell at school, perhaps, but mothers have a new Vitamin alphabet to consider where health is concerned. Milk contains a whole army of vitamins... fighters against disease, poor teeth and bones, and other potential enemies to children's health. And that's not all! Milk has many other vital health properties, and tastes good besides. Children beg for a big glass with meals and between meals. Give them all they want!
